

to be able to estimate the minimum length of the mammal at more than three hundred